Proclamation

I believe that in "39 East" Miss Crothers has done what no other play might do. Which is—
 Make an audience laugh, cry and applaud itself limp at the story of a girl who was a choir singer, the daughter of a small town minister, who moved to New York, became a chorus girl and who, despite many handicaps, kept herself refreshingly unsophisticated, charming and pure.
 You say it cannot be done? That's because you haven't seen "39 East," with Henry Hull and Constance Binney. I know whereof I speak, for I've seen the Crothers play twice.

EVICION DAY IN THE BRONX WILL BE REPEATED TO-DAY

Eviction Day in the Bronx Will Be Repeated To-Day

Outlook Is for 5,000 More Bronxites to Be Made Homeless.

The landlord and tenant situation in the Bronx is more acute than ever.

The scenes yesterday in the two trial parts of the Second District Municipal Court of the Bronx, where Justice Michael J. Scanlan settled the difficulties of over 1,700 persons as to where they shall live, will be repeated to-day on a smaller scale in the First District Municipal Court.

In this court, which takes in the eastern section of the Bronx and the whole of the Westchester territory in that county, Justice Peter A. Sidel will decide 15 more cases. With an average of five to the family, this means that more than five hundred more Bronxites will be in doubt as to their abode until the end of the court session to-day.

At that, it is a question to most of them as to just how long they can hang on to their present homes, for according to Clerk James Murphy the majority of the cases on the calendar to-day are what are termed "hold over" proceedings. In these cases there is no alternative but giving up the apartments.

There is little hope for these people. Under the law the legal time the courts can grant them is five days. Yesterday Justice Scanlan, taking heed of the unprecedented situation, took the law in his own hands. He stipulated the landlords at every stage and made short work of one city marshal who sought to obtain a warrant of eviction in the time prescribed in the code, granting every tenant who requested it until next Monday to move.

All May records were shattered in the Bronx this year, and but for the fact that an amendment to the civil procedure gave the courts some leeway in the May 1 ruling there would by this time be many Bronx families out on the street.

May 1 has been looked upon as landlords' day. Formerly, under the theory that a tenant with a lease could enforce the lease for a full year before he was permitted to remain in the premises after that date, landlords could obtain warrants on the morning of May 1 and secure execution that same day. This year five days' grace was allowed the tenant.

Senator Henry G. Schackno of the 21st Senatorial District, who as a member of the Mayor's Committee on Rent was present at the trials yesterday, will be on the job again to-day.

"The legislators up at Albany," said Senator Schackno, "had little grasp of the situation. Here we have 500 cases in the Second District Court this year, as compared with 110 last year, and in the First District Court this year as compared with fifty-two. These figures are amazing when one considers the hopelessness of finding even livable apartments under the conditions that exist to-day."

In the mean time Justice Robitsek, County Clerk Callahan and the other members of the Bronx delegation which went to Albany will make a serious attempt to get the aid of the Board of Estimate. The committee yesterday received an offer from William S. Taylor of Mount Vernon to place at their disposal 2,000 lots in the Bronx for building to be financed by the city and rented out without profit to himself.
